

Story board - User journey

SAM is our customer entering the restaurant. The receptionist takes Sam's picture. The system matches the database and display's information on receptionist's screen.

The receptionist sends Sam's information including his emotion via SMS to the table attendant. Table attendant can view Sam's information on his device and decides to engage with him accordingly

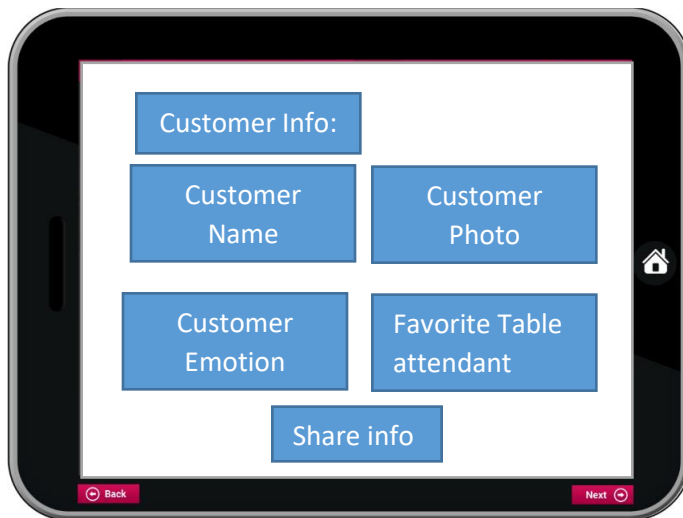

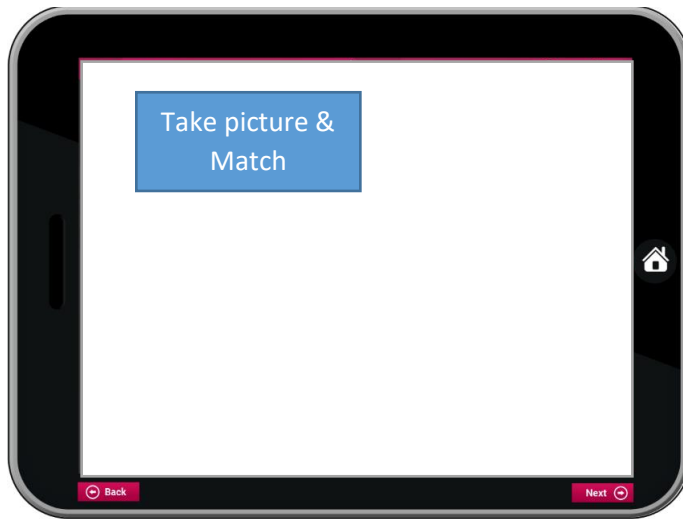

The table attendant Nick greets the customer and offers him suggestions based on his previous orders. Sam feels happy to receive personalized attention.

User Interface-

The receptionist

The Table attendant

